

RoMedInf 2017 “E-Health for Smart Cities” Conference

RoMedInf 2017 conference E-Health for Smart Cities organized by the Romanian Society of Medical Informatics was held in Timișoara on 23-24 November 2017. It was a jubilee event, marking the 40th birthday of the conference since the first national symposium of medical informatics.

The program comprised of 5 plenary sessions with a view on current topics as the impact of patients' privacy in e-Health deployment, healthcare and emergency medicine, new technologies applied in healthcare and a combination of trends and history related to medical informatics domain. The 36 oral presentations and 10 posters were distributed among eight sessions. The speakers came from Timișoara, Cluj-Napoca, București, Târgu Mureș, Iași, from technical and medical faculties and research institutes. Companies with vision supported the event and had presentations during the conference. The audience was very active and participated in consolidating the domain.

The papers published in the 40 issue, no. 1-2 of Applied Medical Informatics are a collection of full text of participants at RoMedInf 2017.

Details about the program, the awarded four prizes and pictures are found on RSMI website, <http://srimed.ro/pagini/Romedinf2017.html>.
